From the tone of our republican exchanges, we should judge that McGill was now in the lead for the nomination for Governor. His friends have picked up renewed courage since the withdrawal of Albert Scheller from the contest.

It is about time for the democratic county committee to issue the call for the county convention.

As long as the date for the meeting has been fixed, give us the call, and the candidates for the different offices will come to the surface, and the people will then have time to make up their minds whom they will nominate.

HUBERT O. THOMPSON, the leader of the County Democracy of New York, died in that city last week, of apoplexy. A short time ago, John Kelly the leader of Tammany died, thus both of the great leaders of the democracy of New York city have passed a way within a few months of each other, leaving their places to be filled by young men. Such is life.

Cot. Hans Mattson, of Minneapolis estimates the Scandinavian population of Minnesota at 245,000.

He adds:

If we assume that one in four is a voter, the number of voters would be 60,000 instead of 25,000 the P.

P. had it, but in order to be on the safe side I prefer to adopt the views of Frederickland, one of our leading Scandinavian papers, giving only one voter in five, and this gives a total Scandinavian vote of 60,000.

Farmers generally are pleased with both quantity and quality of grain in their stacks.

An excursion of about fifty married men with their families, known as the old folks party, from Minneapolis visited the Island Sunday. The Waconia String Band discoursed the music on the Island and on the boat, as it took its trip around the lake.

Mr. L. O. Hulberg, formerly of Waconia drove from Farmington in company with a friend last Sunday, to spend a few hours visiting old friends here and catch another glimpse of the Island.

Mr. and Mrs. Dr. Cash were visiting friends here last week.

We understand that the Sisters in charge of the Parish School have been removed to other fields of usefulness and labor. By their patient and untiring efforts to improve the minds of the children here, they have engrained into the hearts of the boys and girls the most enduring feelings of love and affection. They take with them many a little present from the little ones in token of the love they bear them, as well as the best wishes of the entire community.

A veritable though small sized cyclone passed over a part of the village last week. Besides throwing over shocks and breaking down fruit trees in the line of its path, it destroyed awnings and scaffolding, striking the unfinished house of Mrs. Lahr, it moved it completely off its foundation almost demolishing the house as far as built.

Last Monday morning, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Mix and Master Harry started on a long meditated trip east. The route will take in Chicago, New York, Hudson River,

Washington D. C. and the homes of early childhood. The party expects to be gone about five weeks.

May the pleasure anticipated by all interested be more than realized and with refreshed bodies and invigored minds may they return to again gladden the hearts of their friends with their presence.

COUNTY FAIR.

A LARGE PREMIUM

LIST.

We publish in another column of this issue, the premium list of the County Fair, to be held at Chaska on Thursday, Friday &

Saturday, Sept. 28, 29, 30 & 1st.

By glancing over the list it will be seen that the list of premiums are much larger and cover much more ground than in former years, and the farmers of this county should try and make this the best County Fair, in the State this year. We have the produce and stock to make it so—all it lacks is a little more energy on the part of farmers, and we hope to be able to say, hereafter, that that quality is not lacking this year, and that we may expect a grand display—far surpassing all other efforts in that direction.

A Little Hero.

Tuesday of last week Fred Iltis's little son and daughter, Willis and Mena by name, aged respectively 9 & 2 years, were playing on the Ferry boat which was out in the River, Willis, however, heard the splash of the water and missing his sister, made a dive where he supposed she fell in and grabbed her by the hair, bringing her safely to the shore.

For this brave act on the part of this young boy, we shall hereafter call him our "little hero."

The New England fishermen threaten, unless the government does something to protect them against Canadian out-boatings, to enter into the greatest boating scheme of the age, by declaring non-intercourse with the Dominion and refusing to touch at a colonial port except in case of life and death. Such a policy on their part would speedily bring the Kanucks to their senses.

Captain Joseph Purdy, who is now living quietly at Haver, Idaho, is to be remembered for his remarkable record. When the rebellion broke out he spent $3,000 of his own money in organizing a regiment in Ohio. He went to the front, fought all through the war, and, when mustered out, took his indorsement placed on his discharge by his commanding officer. "This officer has not been absent from his command a day during the entire war."

The publishers of a newspaper having a very large circulation offered half-a-dozen prizes of considerable value for stories for boys and girls, at the same time promising to pay for such, as were fitted for their columns, although they failed of winning any of the prizes. In response to this invitation nearly 5,000 manuscripts were received within the course of a few months. The graduates of half the schools are virtually taught that it is a big thing to write a composition, and rather low business to indulge in manual labor.

Henry Bera, the man who prevents cruelty to animals in New York and vicinity, is strongly opposed to vaccination. He says: "The whole principle of inoculation is wrong. The medical profession fears to express its honest convictions because of the popular belief in vaccination. The human race is deteriorating under vaccination. Smallpox, cancer, syphilis, and other forms of disease are resulting from it. There are no end of fanatics who find microbes for every disease. They will be finding one for diphtheria tremors before long."

A comparison of the volume of postal business done in twenty leading post offices in the last week of June in 1885 with the volume of the same week this year shows that the reduction of letter postage to the two-cent rate has been followed by an increase of nearly 22 per cent. in the number of letters sent, and the change of the unit for sealed matter from half an ounce to one ounce has been followed by an increase in the number of sealed parcels of nearly 60 per cent. The increase of the number of parcels of all kinds has been more than 10 per cent.

The returns of immigration for the fiscal year ending at the first of the month show a slight falling off as compared with the previous year, the total of the six leading ports of the country being 328,917, against 341,030 for the year ending June 30, 1885. But it is less than 42 per cent. of the immigration of four years ago, when the total was 788,992. This shows that the extraordinary stimulus to immigration afforded by the boom of 1879 and 1880, has died out, and we can expect a moderate addition to our population until we experience another wave of prosperity.

The summer of 1886 will long be remembered as one of the most remarkable, meteorologically, in the annals of the country. In sections where, usually, the heat is moderate and tempered by refreshing breezes from the north, the heat has been higher than ever before, and the corn and grass crops have been burned up. In some localities the people were compelled to abandon their ordinary avocations for several days and seek a refuge from the superheated air in their cellars. At points in the South and East, where the mercury usually finds its greatest altitude the weather has been moderately cool during the day, while the nights have shown a remarkable fall in temperature, accompanied by considerable dampness.

The report of the commissioners of internal revenue for the fiscal year ending June 30, shows that taxes were received on $7,170,933 barrels of fermented liquors, an increase of 1,524,190 bbls. over the preceding year. The full value of the alcoholic liquors consumed last year by the people of the United States. On this basis of 60,000,000 of population this gives a per capita consumption of thirteen gallons and three quarts, with nearly 14,000 of these gallons to be distributed in glasses. Assuming that these liquors were consumed by one-half the population, would give to each individual consumer over twenty-seven gallons.

The average death rate of the whole United States is about 18 to each 1,000 inhabitants, which is a low mortality when compared with France, where the average death rate is 23.6; England, 20.5; the German empire, 26.1; Belgium, 22.4; Austria, 29.6; Italy, 30.5. The only places that compare favorably with this country are Sweden and the rural districts of England. In the fifty largest cities of the country, typhoid fever is reported as causing 16.7 in each 1,000 deaths, from specified causes, while outside the cities it caused double that number of deaths, which is properly regarded as showing that typhoid fever is not much of a disease of crowded cities and general water supplies of old-fashioned privies and wells.

Condensed General News.

British Under Snow in July.

London, Sept. 4.—A dispatch from the British Under Snow in July, chronicle a tragic affair which happened in the White Mountains. A party of eleven Eastern Massachusetts men, who were on a picnic at the party, reached at 2 p. m. They had dinner and then went on to the summit of the mountain, where they were met by a severe snow storm. The party was separated, and only one man was rescued. The others were killed.

CHASKA, MINNESOTA

The decrease of the national debt during July was $9,049,109.

For the first time there will be no "October election" in Ohio. Last year the voters ratified a Constitutional amendment changing the time for the annual State election from October to November.

The people of Minn's Landing, on the Kentucky river, in Woodford county, Ky., are much agitated by mysterious droppings of stones, apparently out of the sky, and falling indiscriminately upon the just and the unjust.

Some of the watering places on the eastern coast have been desolated on account of mosquitoes. The walls of the houses were literally black with insects and the inhabitants were compelled to walk on the beaches or sleep on the sand under nettles.

The silicified forest of Arizona, known as Lohocost park, covers 1,000 acres, and consist of fallen trees which have become buried and silicified into glass. It is the most beautiful colored wood in the world, being every imaginable shade of red, brown and green.

By the action just taken by the Spanish Chamber of Deputies the island of Cuba becomes wholly free territory. Brazil is now the only place in the Western Hemisphere where the right of one man to the person and labor of another is recognized by law, and even Brazil expects to become a free state ultimately under the working of a gradual emancipation law.

Mr. Edward Spencer Pratt, the newly-appointed United States Minister to Persia, is a native of Mobile, Ala., 35 years of age. His father was a banker. He has lived in Europe almost constantly since he was four years of age, and was educated in France. He has traveled in almost all countries, and has been a contributor to magazines and newspapers at home and abroad.

A dispatch says that alarm exists throughout the mining industry of Montana over the rapid decline of silver. The Inter-Mountain estimates that 50,000 people in the territory are dependent upon the mining industry and Cognate enterprises, including smelters, merchants, farmers and mechanics. The recent depreciation of ten cents per ounce in silver represents profits of the mining companies which will have to close down unless a reaction occurs.

That was a narrow escape which Gen. Logan, Gov. Alger of Michigan, and the other Grand Army veterans on the way to the San Francisco national encampment met in the rocky defiles of Echo canyon on the Central Pacific railroad. A collision with a stray engine occurred, wrecking two locomotives. The precious load of passengers all miraculously escaped and celebrated the event, not by feasting and drinking, but more appropriately by a service of song and praise.

The interstate commerce bill of Senator Cullum and the bill of representative Pagan, were fully discussed at the late session, and it is probable that an agreement will be reached next session and a satisfactory measure passed. At a meeting of a conference committee of both houses, it was unanimously agreed that the committee should meet in Washington a week before the next session begins and make such modifications in the pending bills as may be agreed upon.

The southwest and northwest have had the affliction of drought this year. The north west has suffered to some extent, but not much in comparison with the southwest. In Texas, New Mexico and other states and territories cattle have died by thousands, and the water has dried up, and the grass has in numerous places entirely disappeared. This has caused ranchmen to hurry their stock to market, and the worst specimens of Texas cattle ever seen in the stock yards are now coming forward.

The Lowell (Mass.) Courier voices the sentiment of many level-headed people when it exclaims: "If there is anywhere on the footstool a set of more deeply illusioned cranks than the handful of men and women who meet under the Concord apple trees and moon over Plato and Socrates than a way that would have scandalized where to locate them." If these cranks are in a great rage because the papers have declined to fill their columns with their own nonsense.

Russia lately shipped a cargo of petroleum in bulk to London, the first ever transported in that manner. This was followed a few days ago by a shipment from the United States in the same manner, by a steamer especially constructed for that purpose. She is 300 feet in length, and externally has the appearance of an ordinary three-masted cargo steamer, but internally she is entirely different, being subdivided into a number of cells or compartments for carrying the petroleum, and the entire vessel being made of iron, and the liquid cargo, and for controlling the liquid which escape therefrom. She is fitted with a very elaborate system of pumping appliances, and during the trial they worked with the greatest regularity and without the slightest noise. Four of these pumps are fitted on board for different purposes; the largest one being of sufficient capacity to discharge the whole cargo in twelve hours.
